Term 4 Week 2

Geography

Learning Intention.

- L.I: To design a map referring to its key human features.

We have learnt a lot about maps, but today we are going to think about the different types of key features we might find on maps.

What do you think a human key feature might be?

What do you think a natural key feature might be?

Think, pair and share your ideas.

Back

Next

www.planbee.com

Maps are made up of human and natural features.

A human feature is something that is man-made, such as buildings and roads.

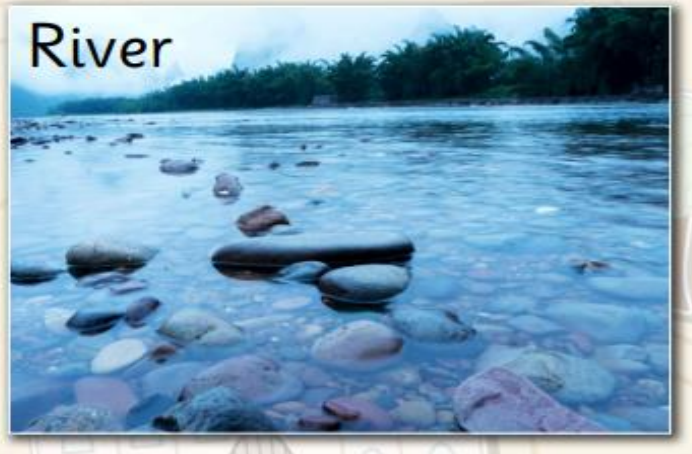
A natural feature is is something that has occurred naturally such as a river or mountain.

Do you think a school building is a human feature or a natural feature?

Back

Next

Natural Key Features



These are all natural key features.

They are not man-made!

Can you think of any more natural key features?

Back

Next

Human Key Features

These are all human key features.

They are man-made!

Can you think of any more human key features?

Back

Next

Human Key Features

Can you write a list of human features and a list of natural features?

Natural Key Features

Back

Next

This is a map of Spring Town.

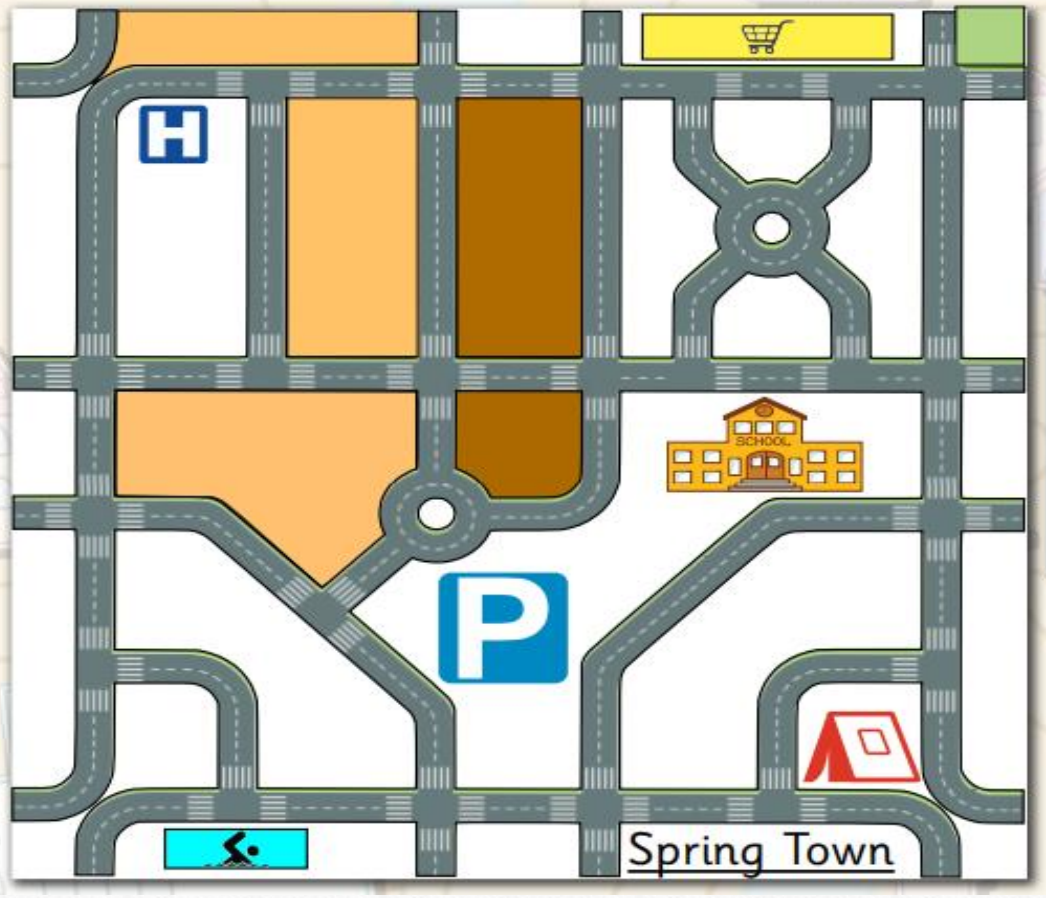
What do you notice about the map of Spring Town?

What human features can you see?

Back

Next

The residents of Spring Town are not happy.



Why do you think the residents are not happy?

What do you think would make them happier?

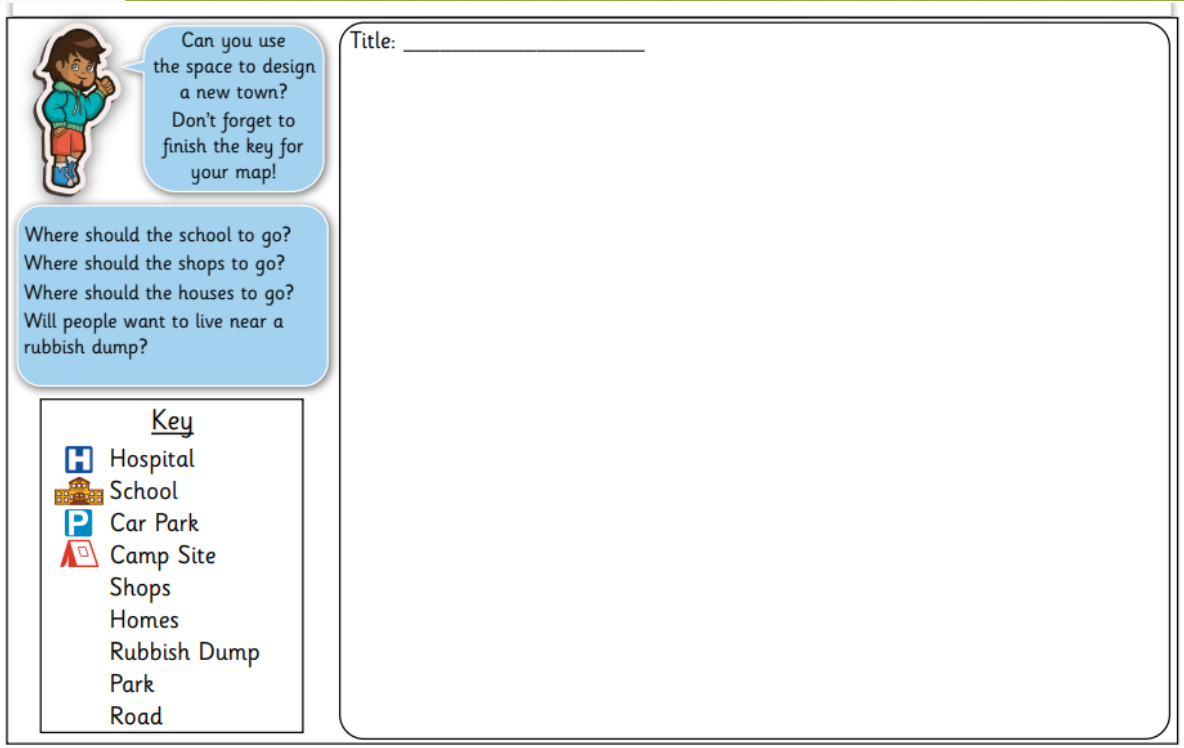
Think, pair and share your ideas.

Back

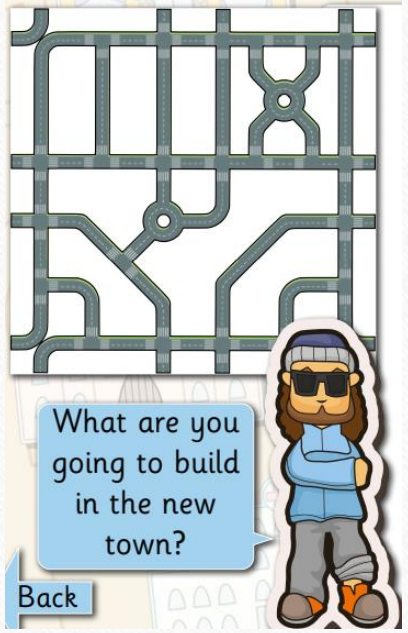
Next

We all live in Spring Town and we need your help!
How could you build a great place to live?
The park is too small!
It smells!
Can you help us by designing a new town?
Back
Next

Activity



To build a new Spring Town.

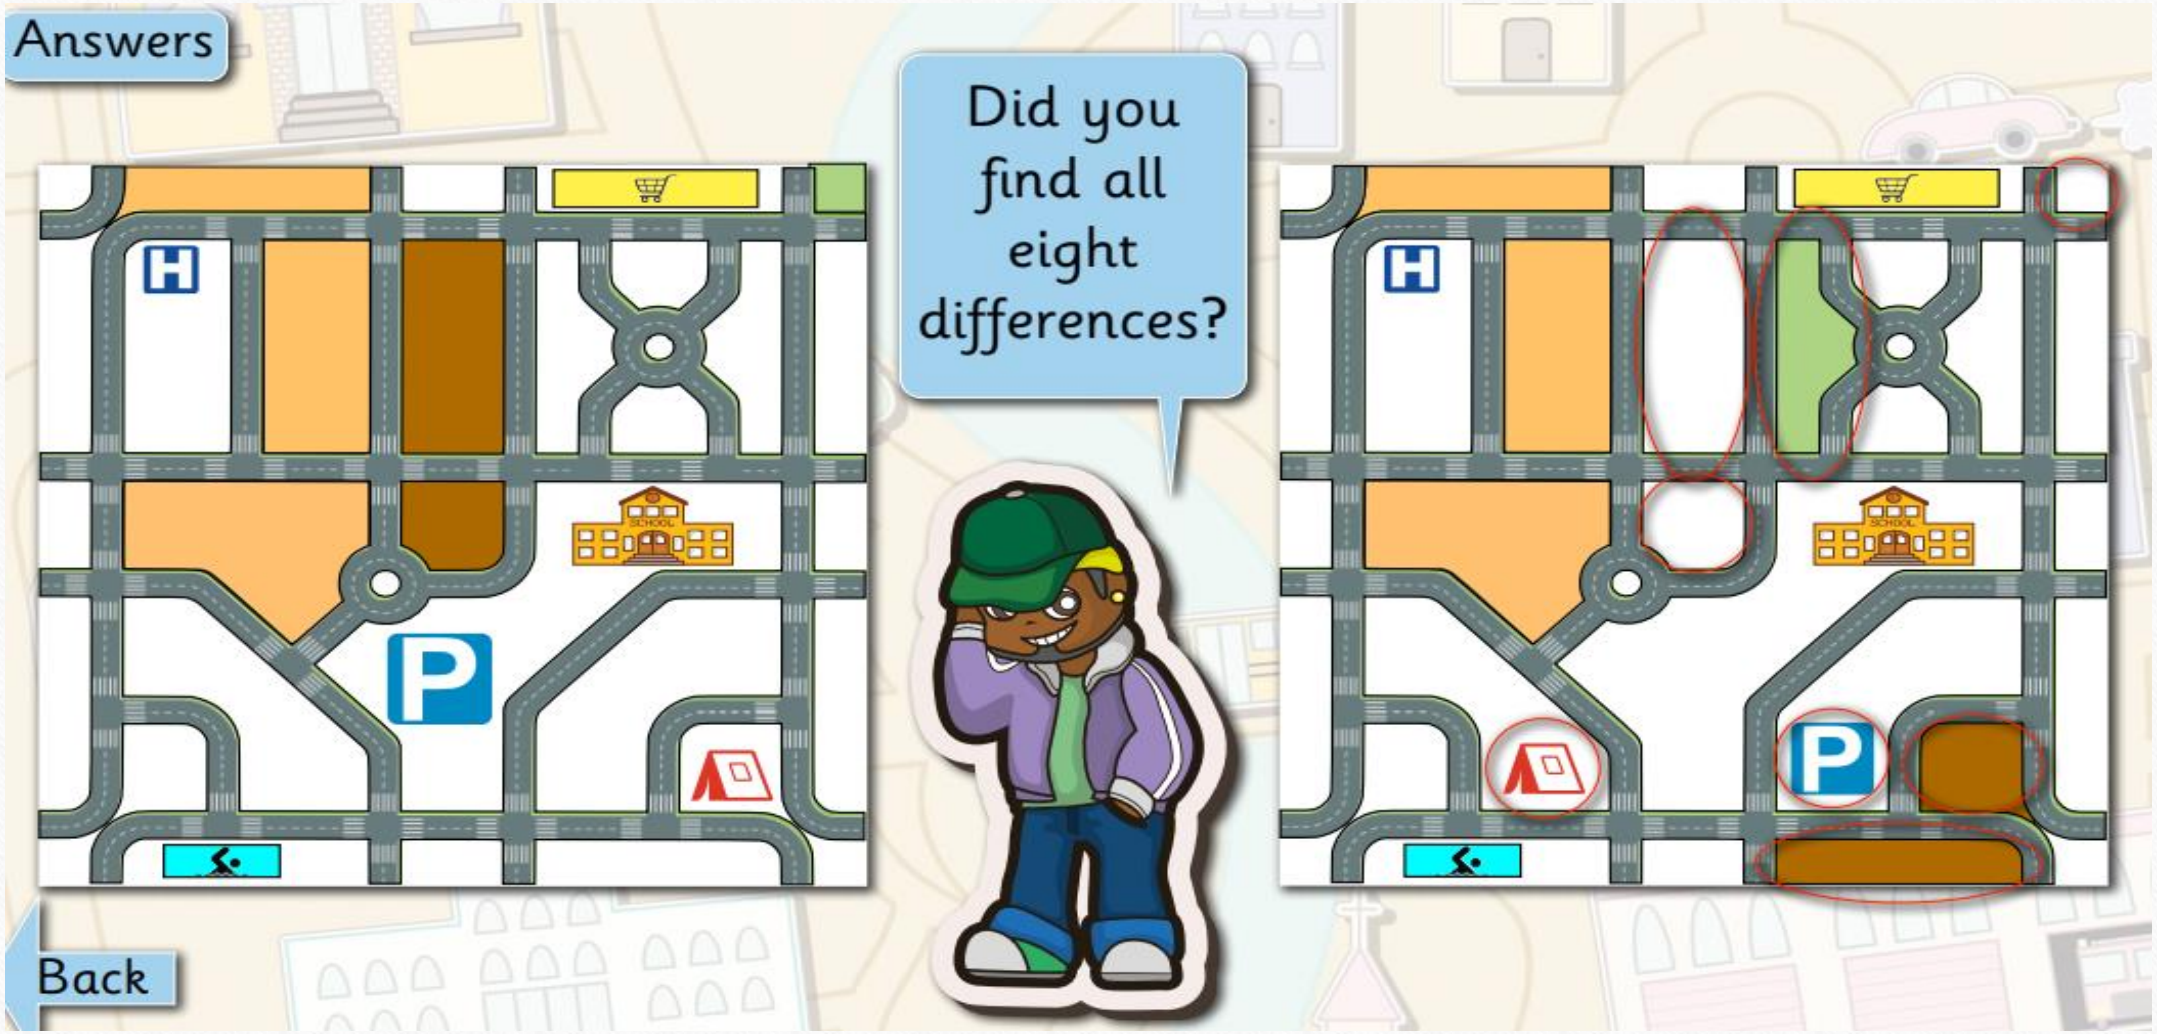


Plenary

How many differences can you find?

Back

Next



Answers
Did you find all eight differences?
Back